

Percent of qualified health plan enrollees who qualify for federal subsidies

Impact of Enhanced Federal Subsidies in Washington

Improved Health Insurance Enrollment and Affordability for Washingtonians

WITH ENHANCED FEDERAL SUBSIDIES

More Washingtonians were able to enroll in health coverage

Most saved hundreds on their premiums every month

WITHOUT ENHANCED FEDERAL SUBSIDIES many will lose coverage and premiums will skyrocket

Enrollees who benefitted the most from tax credits will see the highest increase in their premiums:

-$250M in annual federal funding would be lost in Washington

-24,000 Washingtonians would lose their subsidies

~70,000 Washingtonians would lose coverage

Loss of expanded tax credits would also disproportionately impact:

- Farmers
- Child care employees
- Construction workers
- Self-employed workers
- Small business owners

SCENARIO SPOTLIGHT

SCENARIO A 60-year-old Yakima County resident makes $41,700 per year (204% FPL for a family of 2) and is enrolled in the lowest cost silver plan in their county.

IMPACT If ARPA-enhanced subsidies expire, they would see a 10x increase in their premium – from $14 to $170 per month.
